

ZITNM 2016

Zoroastrianism in the New Millennium

International Conference

22 - 23rd March 2016
National Museum, New Delhi

Zoroastrianism in the New Millennium (ZITNM) is an endeavor to engage in cross cultural studies through both - artifacts and intangible heritage. We hope to focus on Central Asian history, Indo-Iranian Comparative Traditions , Endurance of Religion, Methods of Posterity and an understanding of Parsi Zoroastrian identity emerging through the making of Modern India. For this, we bring presentations, discussions, and movies by academics, filmmakers, priests, and independent researchers together on the same platform to chart Zoroastrian scholarship as it has arrived in the last few decades. We hope, through this conference, to open the field of Zoroastrian studies to students and researchers interested in understanding Zoroastrian identity negotiating itself with the conditions and context of the 21st Century.
